

SHOOTS TWICE AT A PRIEST

NEWARK MAN THEN GIVES HIMSELF UP TO POLICE.

The Priest, Father Zuccarelli, is the Brother-in-Law of the Would-Be Assassin—Bullets Didn't Hit Him—The Men Had Quarrelled for Ten Years.

Salvatore Musumeci, of 11 Bedford street, Newark, attempted to assassinate his brother-in-law, the Rev. James Zuccarelli, pastor of St. Rocco's Catholic Church in that city, yesterday morning. He fired two shots from a revolver and then walked to the Fourth precinct police station, where he gave himself up, believing that he had wounded the priest. Neither bullet took effect. Musumeci was taken before Judge Herr later and committed in default of $2,500 bail for examination on Wednesday.

The shooting, which came as a climax of nine years of wrangling between the two, occurred in front of the parochial school adjoining the church and two doors from Musumeci's home. Father Zuccarelli was standing in the doorway of the schoolhouse about 7 o'clock talking to his sister when Musumeci approached them. When about eight feet away from the clergyman Musumeci, it is alleged, drew a revolver, uttered an oath and fired. Father Zuccarelli stepped back into the shelter of the vestibule after the first shot. The bullet struck the door about seven feet above the ground. The second bullet passed through the open door and lodged in the wall. Musumeci walked away and a few minutes later appeared at the police station. He still carried the revolver in his hand and looked ignorant of the shooting and alarmed at the appearance of the man, wrested the weapon from him. Father Zuccarelli told the police that he had had no conversation with Musumeci.

The priest started a suit against Musumeci last Friday for $10,000 damages. Musumeci had accused the priest of being "an assassin." That was at the trial on Wednesday of a suit Musumeci had brought against the priest and Horner for false arrest in the Supreme Court Circuit at Newark. The accusation forms the basis of the priest's suit. Musumeci obtained a verdict for $125 in his action against the detectives.

Trouble between Father Zuccarelli and Musumeci had its beginning in 1891, until which time the two had been the best of friends. In July of that year the church was established. Musumeci conducted an undertaking establishment and tobacco shop in the corner of the street. The undertaker fell in love with the priest's sister, their engagement was announced and the bans were first published in the New York Herald.

Word reached the late Bishop Wigger that Musumeci had a wife living in Italy and by his order further announcement of the ban was suspended. Musumeci declared that the report was false and that he never married. This he never did. After waiting months for proof, Father Zuccarelli sent his sister to New York and contrary to his advice she became the wife of Musumeci in New York in January, 1900. Subsequently she and her husband returned to Newark. Charging that the priest forcibly entered his home and tried to persuade his wife to leave him Musumeci had Father Zuccarelli arrested and taken to court. The priest refused to give to Mrs. Musumeci $400 which she said she had left with him for safekeeping. No judgment was found, however, but from that time Musumeci alleged the priest constantly persecuted him, refusing to allow funerals of the undertaker to come into the church and urging the congregation to have nothing to do with him.

The undertaker accused the priest of violating the canonical and moral law and submitted affidavits to Bishop O'Connor. These were all dismissed as being without foundation. Musumeci also asserted that the priest performed a spurious marriage knowingly, but that was investigated and found to be untrue. Musumeci was arrested several times after that on charges made by the priest and the latter's brother. He was also taken into custody on suspicion of the robbery last year in connection with the placing of a condensed milk can containing what was supposed to be dynamite on the front stoop of a house at 14 Bedford street. The complaint was dismissed for lack of evidence and the suits against detectives Tuile and Horner followed.

COPS HERD BARGAIN HUNTERS.

Thousands Who Rush Upon Two Williamsburg Stores Have a Distressing Time.

Skiffles, common, dropped to five cents every in Williamsburg yesterday, and wash boilers, preferred, led the downward march of kitchen utensils, selling at ten cents. Boys' overalls were grabbed at a nickel a pair by excited traders and cotton umbrellas were lively at a dime.

So many Yiddish residents of Williamsburg hustled to a pair of rival five and ten cent stores in that way that by 8 o'clock in the morning three car lines were blocked, the street was solidly jammed with people and there were signs of coming trouble. The Hamburg avenue police station turned out Capt. Burns and fifteen men, who were unable to shepherd the crowd into orderly lines, and another call for reserves was sent to the Vernon avenue station, bringing Capt. Buchanan and a dozen more policemen.

Before the squads of cops untangled traffic problems many of the 3,000 or more shoppers, mostly women, had their clothes torn, lost purses from their bags or complained that they had been frisked by pickpockets.

The police made several arrests and managed finally to establish lines of entrance and exit into the two shops. The trolley cars were held up for nearly an hour.

FIREBUG'S PLAN MISARRIED.

White Plains Policeman's Discovery Prevents a Bad Fire.

WHITE PLAINS, April 24.—An attempt was made early this morning to burn the block just west of Ranscht's grocery store on Central avenue, and had it not been for the timely discovery of the blaze by Policeman Joseph Shay, the firebug might have accomplished his purpose. The lives of a dozen families were in peril. While patrolling on Central avenue at 3:45 o'clock Shay noticed a bright light in the alleyway between Vincenzo Galliano's market, at 16 Central avenue, and Ranscht's grocery. In investigating he found a barrel of rubbish in the alley on fire. The flames had reached the building, but a few pails of water extinguished them.

A strong odor of oil could be detected, and upon searching the alley Shay found two cans that had contained kerosene. The rubbish in the barrel had been sprinkled with oil and the pavement was wet with it. The police said it was certain that a deliberate attempt had been made to burn the building. It was the second fire found in that block in five weeks.

Private Dinner to Croker Tonight.

Richard Croker is to have a farewell dinner after all, but it is to be a small and private affair at Belmont tonight. Mr. Croker sails for Ireland on Wednesday on the Lusitania.
